

Hufton + Crow
Brandhorst Museum, Munich

Designed by Sauerbruch Hutton whose building envelopes are famously colourful. The museum features a two layered facade composing vertical ceramic louvres, glazed in eight colours and colour coated horizontally folding metal skin. This complex arrangement of colour brings a continually changing appearance as you move around the building.

